

5-1-2008

Julius

Megan Sichler
NSU University School

Follow this and additional works at: http://nsuworks.nova.edu/uschool_litmag

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Sichler, Megan (2008) "Julius," Hieroglyphics: the NSU University School Literary Magazine: Vol. 15, Article 102.
Available at: http://nsuworks.nova.edu/uschool_litmag/vol15/iss1/102

This Short Story is brought to you for free and open access by the University School at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Hieroglyphics: the NSU University School Literary Magazine by an authorized administrator of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

Julius

By Megan Sichler

Julius is the color of pomegranate in spring with flowers growing out of the seeds that are bright yellow because the lemons looked at them while they were hatching chicks from the spontaneous generation of fruit flies from raw animal meat like in the olden times when people were stupid and thought the earth was flat and water flowed backwards like in the Nile where silt turns yellow and the people turn red because they get bitten by the silk worms that got stuck in their clothes and reproduced eating away at the children that said, "If everything's falling the six walls are closing in on our mothers," because the trash compactor caused a reaction with the atmosphere that made the whole universe squish into oblivion while the chickens escaped to the moon that fell from the sky during the incident with the purple rain and the green flamingos that tried to eat the canned beets that made the humans freak out because they eat them too much which makes them angry and their therapists recommended burning the ideas that caused the anger and the Americans moved to Canada and started saying "Aye" after everything but the French Canadians got upset because then their cows became upset that the bulls weren't paying attention to them anymore and the cows were put on diet pills to look more attractive which made the people get diseases because there were funky cretins in the pills that made the bulls eat the birds which caused the birds to lose their feet after many decades of natural selection because then they couldn't land and get hit by the cars that were running away from the bulls.

Valerie P.